Item 4 Advisory Business

Description of Firm

Princeton Asset Management, LLC is a state Registered Investment Adviser located at One Park Place, 621 NW 53rd Street, Suite 240, Boca Raton, FL 33487. The firm is organized as a Limited Liability Company under the laws of the State of Florida. We have been providing investment advisory services since July 2008. Additionally, it is a Women & Minority Owned firm.

Princeton Asset Management, LLC ("Princeton") is the investment manager for the Princeton Core Fixed Income Strategy Composite and the Princeton Opportunistic Credit Strategy Composite.

The following paragraphs describe our services and fees. Refer to the description of each investment advisory service listed below for information on how we tailor our advisory services to your individual needs. As used in this brochure, the words "we", "our" and "us" refer to Princeton Asset Management, LLC and the words "you", "your" and "client" refer to you as either a client or prospective client of our firm.

Portfolio Management Services

1. Princeton Core Fixed Income Strategy Composite

Princeton Core Fixed Income Strategy seeks to outperform the Bloomberg Barclays U.S. Aggregate Bond Index by (1) superior security selection, (2) sector over/under-weighting, (3) yield curve positioning, and (4) duration management. Additionally, as part of the investment process, the Strategy incorporates a (1) catalyst-driven overlay and (2) ESG investment approach. The investment universe consists of U.S. Treasuries, Agency securities, mortgage backed securities, supranationals, and corporate bonds. Within the investment-grade corporate bond sector, the strategy seeks to capture excess return caused by structural changes in the bond markets. Leverage is not deployed.

2. Princeton Opportunistic Credit Strategy Composite

Princeton Opportunistic Credit Strategy seeks to capture excess return in opportunistic situations caused by structural changes in the credit markets. It opportunistically invests in credits experiencing event-driven and value situations. A catalyst-driven and ESG investment approach are also part of the investment process. Typically, a near-term catalyst drives price movement. Short candidates may be targeted where a catalyst is negatively impacting a credit. The Strategy may deploy selective use of leverage to enhance return or in an effort to mitigate risk. Also, an income component exists whereby the Strategy invests in preferred stock for attractive current yield. The investment universe consists primarily of corporate credits across a company's capital structure, U.S. Treasury bonds and notes, and preferred stock. Leverage may be deployed to either short securities or purchase securities on margin for purposes of enhancing return or hedging. Additionally, there is an income component of the Strategy, consisting of preferred stock and other income-producing securities which contribute levels of cash flow to achieve an attractive yield.

Environmental, social, and governance (ESG) values may be incorporated into the portfolios.

The process of implementing ESG and impact investing principles involves (1) exclusion, (2) evaluation, (3) inclusion, and (4) engagement. Principles of engagement include influencing management for a positive outcome, proactivity, effective outreach, and measurable benchmarking of results.

Potential ESG Areas of Focus:

- i) Renewable Energy
- ii) Sustainable Resources

- iii) Climate Action
- iv) Gender Equality
- v) Diversity
- vi) Human Trafficking
- vii) Environmental Preservation & Promotion
- viii) No Poverty
- ix) Quality Education
- x) Clean Water & Sanitation
- xi) Workplace Safety
- xii) Life in Water
- xiii) Agriculture and Life on Land
- xiv) Product Safety
- xv) Financial Statement Transparency
- xvi) Upholding Justice/Not Seeking Legal Loopholes
- xvii) Affordable Housing

With respect to risk control, Princeton monitors its sector exposure, credit exposure, and duration exposure. Of particular note is Princeton's risk management model which is based on its Duration and Yield Curve Positioning Model. The model analyzes the following factors: present phase of the market cycle, central bank bias, and term premium. The model helps determine the overall duration of the portfolio and where to be positioned on the yield curve. This is key as a bond's total return over the course of a year may exceed its coupon income. With respect to corporate bond holdings, corporate issuers are financially modeled.

Discretionary investment authority allows Princeton to determine the specific securities, and the amount of securities, to be purchased or sold for your account without your approval prior to each transaction. Discretionary authority is typically granted by the investment advisory agreement you sign with our firm and the appropriate trading authorization forms. You may limit our discretionary authority (for example, limiting the types of securities that can be purchased or sold for your account) by providing our firm with your restrictions and guidelines in writing.

Princeton manages composites in addition to the Princeton Core Fixed Income Strategy Composite and the Princeton Opportunistic Credit Strategy Composite. Also, Princeton provides advisory services for alternative investments.

We may also offer non-discretionary portfolio management services. If you enter into non-discretionary arrangements with our firm, we must obtain your approval prior to executing any transactions on behalf of your account. You have an unrestricted right to decline to implement any advice provided by our firm on a non-discretionary basis. Princeton has very limited non-discretionary accounts.

Princeton does not maintain custody of client assets. Custody of assets is performed by outside custodians which include Fidelity and Interactive Brokers.

Wrap Fee Programs

We do not participate in any wrap fee program.

Types of Investments

The types of investments deployed in Princeton's investment strategies include investment-grade corporate bonds, U.S. Treasury Bills, U.S. Treasury Notes, U.S. Treasury Bonds, High Yield bonds, High Yield bonds, floating-rate securities, fixed-coupon bonds, Senior Notes, fixed-to-floating rate securities, Preferred Stock,

Treasury ETFs, mandatory-redeemable preferred stock, equities, mutual funds, interval funds, publicly-traded ETNs and ETFs. Princeton also researches, identifies and performs due diligence upon alternative investment managers. Many of these alternative managers are on the Fidelity Investments institutional platform.

Additionally, we may advise you on various types of investments based on your stated goals and objectives. We may also provide advice on any type of investment held in your portfolio at the inception of our advisory relationship.

Assets Under Management

As of December 31, 2025, Princeton provides continuous management services for $72.3MM in client assets.

Item 5 Fees and Compensation

Our fee for investment advisory services is based on a percentage of your assets we manage. For the Princeton Opportunistic Credit Strategy the fee structure is 1.00% annually. For the Princeton Core Fixed Income Strategy, the fee is negotiable depending upon the size of the account and type of entity. Certain existing or legacy clients may be billed under a different fee schedule that is charged at around 1% annually on asset under management or account's gross position value when the account is levered. Our annual investment advisory fee is billed monthly in arrears based on the month-end account value.

Unless otherwise requested, our investment advisory fees are debited directly from your account(s) through the qualified custodian holding your funds and securities. We will deduct our advisory fee only when the following requirements are met:

- You provide our firm with written authorization permitting the fees to be paid directly from your account held by the qualified custodian.
- We send you an invoice showing the amount of the fee, the value of the assets on which the fee is based, and the specific manner in which the fee was calculated.
- The qualified custodian agrees to send you a statement, at least quarterly, indicating all amounts dispersed from your account including the amount of the advisory fee paid directly to our firm.

We encourage you to reconcile our invoices with the statement(s) you receive from the qualified custodian. If you find any inconsistent information between our invoice and the statement(s) you receive from the qualified custodian call our main office number located on the cover page of this brochure.

You may terminate the investment advisory agreement upon 30 days written notice to our firm in accordance with the terms of the agreement for services. You will incur a pro rata charge for services rendered prior to the termination of the portfolio management agreement, which means you will incur advisory fees only in proportion to the number of days in the quarter for which you are a client. If you have pre-paid advisory fees that we have not yet earned, you will receive a prorated refund of those fees.

Additional Fees and Expenses

As part of our investment advisory services to you, we may take positions in exchange traded funds for duration or hedging purposes. The fees that you pay to our firm for investment advisory services are separate and distinct from the fees and expenses charged by exchange traded funds (described in each fund's prospectus) to their shareholders. These fees will generally include a management fee and other fund expenses. You will also incur transaction charges and/or brokerage fees when purchasing or selling securities. These charges and fees are typically imposed by the broker-dealer or custodian through whom your account transactions are executed. We do not share in any portion of the brokerage fees/transaction charges imposed by the broker-dealer or custodian. To fully understand the total cost you will incur, you should review all the fees charged by mutual funds, exchange traded funds, our firm, and others. For information on our brokerage practices, refer to the Brokerage Practices section of this brochure.

Item 6 Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

N/A.

Item 7 Types of Clients

Princeton Asset Management offers discretionary portfolio management services to institutional clients including investment companies, corporations, profit sharing plans, foundations, family offices, retirement accounts, and individual clients including UHNW individuals, dynasty trusts, irrevocable trusts, and various IRA structures.

In general, we require a minimum of $1,000,000 (for an entity) and $500,000 (for an individual) to open and maintain an advisory account. At our discretion, we may waive this minimum account size. For example, we may waive the minimum if you appear to have significant potential for increasing your assets under our management or there are other family members' accounts with us. We may also combine account values for you and your minor children, joint account with your spouse, and other types of related accounts to meet the stated minimum.

Item 8 Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

The methods of analysis used are as follows: model-based analysis, quantitative analysis, scenario analysis, probability analysis, fundamental analysis, security analysis, top-down and bottom-up analyses.

Investing in securities involves a risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear. Under the strategies used, the material risks are that the securities may decline in value. For stock purchases, the material risks are that the market value of stocks may decline. For bond purchases, the material risks are default risk, credit risk, rating downgrade risk, duration risk and interest rate risk. As with any inve

Past performance is not an indication of future performance.

Item 9 Disciplinary Information

N/A.

Item 10 Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Not applicable. Princeton Asset Management, LLC does not have any relationship or arrangement that is material to our advisory business or to our clients with any of the types of entities listed below. Princeton Asset Management, LLC may provide recommendations to other professionals if requested.

1. broker-dealer, municipal securities dealer, or government securities dealer or broker.
2. investment company or other pooled investment vehicle (including a mutual fund, closed-end investment company, unit investment trust, private investment company or "hedge fund," and offshore fund).
3. other investment adviser or financial planner.
4. futures commission merchant, commodity pool operator, or commodity trading advisor.
5. banking or thrift institution.

6. accountant or accounting firm.
7. lawyer or law firm.
8. insurance company or agency.
9. pension consultant.
10. real estate broker or dealer.
11. sponsor or syndicator of limited partnerships.

Item 11 Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Description of Our Code of Ethics

We strive to comply with applicable laws and regulations governing our practices. Therefore, our Code of Ethics includes guidelines for professional standards of conduct for persons associated with our firm. Our goal is to protect your interests at all times and to demonstrate our commitment to our fiduciary duties of honesty, good faith, and fair dealing with you. All persons associated with our firm are expected to adhere strictly to these guidelines. Persons associated with our firm are also required to report any violations of our Code of Ethics. Additionally, we maintain and enforce written policies reasonably designed to prevent the misuse or dissemination of material, non-public information about you or your account holdings by persons associated with our firm.

Clients or prospective clients may obtain a copy of our Code of Ethics by contacting us at the telephone number on the cover page of this brochure.

Participation or Interest in Client Transactions

Neither our firm nor any persons associated with our firm has any material financial interest in client transactions beyond the provision of investment advisory services as disclosed in this brochure.

Item 12 Brokerage Practices

We maintain relationships with several broker-dealers. The brokers are Fidelity Investments and Interactive Brokers, LLC. While you are free to choose any broker-dealer or other service provider as your custodian, we recommend that you establish an account with a brokerage firm with which we have an existing relationship. Such relationships may include benefits provided to our firm, including but not limited to market information and administrative services that help our firm manage your account(s). We believe that the recommended broker-dealers provide quality execution services for our clients at competitive prices. Price is not the sole factor we consider in evaluating best execution. We also consider the quality of the brokerage services provided by recommended broker-dealers, including the value of the firm's reputation, execution capabilities, commission rates, and responsiveness to our clients and our firm. In recognition of the value of the services recommended broker-dealers provide, you may pay higher commissions and/or trading costs than those that may be available elsewhere.

Research and Other Soft Dollar Benefits

We do not have any soft dollar arrangements.

Brokerage for Client Referrals

We do not receive client referrals from broker-dealers in exchange for cash or other compensation, such as brokerage services or research.

Directed Brokerage

In limited circumstances, and at our discretion, some clients have the option to instruct our firm to use one or more particular brokers for the transactions in their accounts. If you choose to direct our firm to use a particular broker, you should understand that this might prevent our firm from effectively negotiating brokerage commissions on your behalf. This practice may also prevent our firm from obtaining favorable net price and best execution. Thus, when directing brokerage business, you should consider whether the commission expenses, execution, clearance, and settlement capabilities that you will obtain through your broker are adequately favorable in comparison to those that we would otherwise obtain for you.

Block Trades

Transactions for each client generally will be made independently, unless we decide to purchase or sell the same securities for several clients at approximately the same time. We may, but are not obligated to, combine multiple orders for shares of the same securities purchased for advisory accounts we manage (this practice is commonly referred to as "block trading"). We will then distribute a portion of the shares to participating accounts in a fair and equitable manner. The distribution of the shares purchased is typically proportionate to the size of the account, but it is not based on account performance or the amount or structure of management fees. Subject to our discretion regarding factual and market conditions, when we combine orders, each participating account pays an average price per share for all transactions and pays a proportionate share of all transaction costs on any given day. Accounts owned by our firm or persons associated with our firm may participate in block trading with your accounts; however, they will not be given preferential treatment.

Item 13 Review of Accounts

Princeton Asset Management, LLC reviews the Princeton Core Fixed Income Strategy and Princeton Opportunistic Credit Strategy accounts routinely. The accounts are maintained in Separately Managed Account format.

Clients are mailed monthly or quarterly statements from the custodian if paper mailing preference is selected. Otherwise, clients have access to daily, monthly and quarterly statements of positions through online logins of the custodian websites. Regardless of whether paper or online, statements show portfolio holdings, transactions, market valuations, distributions/withdrawals/contributions, account activity, and investment management fees. Princeton Asset Management will also perform Income Analysis on certain portfolios. These reports are written.

Item 14 Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Princeton Asset Management may receive referrals from brokers who are custodians of client accounts. We receive referrals from existing clients who are satisfied with our services and refer their friends or families to us.

We rarely participate in referring clients to other professional services such as legal, accounting or other services. If Princeton extends a referral to other professional services, we do not receive compensation.

Item 15 Custody

An institutional level custodian such as Fidelity Investments has custody of clients' funds and securities. As referenced in Princeton's Investment Advisory Agreement, Fidelity Investments currently takes a 4 basis point Asset Fee for some clients as asset custody fee. There could be additional fees charged by the custodian on other services such as making an alternative investment trade. Upon receiving fee requests from Princeton, Fidelity Investments directly debits client account(s) for the payment of our advisory fees. This ability to deduct advisory fees from client accounts is considered for Princeton to have custody over client funds solely to the extent of advisory fee deduction. Princeton does not hold physical custody of clients' funds and/or securities.

Item 16 Investment Discretion

Princeton Asset Management, LLC accepts discretionary authority to manage securities on behalf of clients. Clients may place limitations (such as Socially Responsible Investing constraints or limiting the duration of bonds in a bond portfolio) upon an investment portfolio.

The procedures followed are that typically a meeting is held with the client to ascertain the client's investment objectives, risk preferences, income needs, tax considerations, time horizon, and any client-specific unique circumstances. These parameters are followed in the investment of the portfolio.

Clients who do not choose a discretionary arrangement retain the responsibility for the final decision on all actions taken with respect to their portfolios. These are Joint Authority accounts and Nondiscretionary Accounts. Additionally, a discretionary account may become a client-directed account to the extent emails are received by the client with respect to securities to purchase, securities not to purchase, rejection of investment strategies, setting leverage levels and specifying level of income. The client assumes the risk of investment performance and the risk of the investment composition of the account, which includes risk of loss, risk of decline of market value, interest rate risk, market risk, interest rate risk, default risk and economic risk. Nondiscretionary trades may not participate in block trading and as a result, may incur higher fees. For additional information regarding block trading, see "Brokerage Practices" above. Additionally, discretionary accounts may become joint authority accounts by virtue of the legal status of the client.

Item 17 Voting Client Securities

We will determine how to vote proxies based on our reasonable judgment of the vote most likely to produce favorable financial results for you. Proxy votes generally will be cast in favor of proposals that maintain or strengthen the shared interests of shareholders and management, increase shareholder value, maintain or increase shareholder influence over the issuer's board of directors and management, and maintain or increase the rights of shareholders. Generally, proxy votes will be cast against proposals having the opposite effect. However, we will consider both sides of each proxy issue.

Princeton votes proxies in accordance with ESG and SRI principles and the fiduciary standard of what is in the best interest of the client.

In the event you wish to direct our firm on voting a particular proxy, you should contact our main office at the phone number on the cover page of this brochure with your instruction.

Conflicts of interest between you and our firm, or a principal of our firm, regarding certain proxy issues could arise. If we determine that a material conflict of interest exists, we will take the necessary steps to resolve the conflict before voting the proxies. For example, we may disclose the existence and nature of the conflict to you, and seek direction from you as to how to vote on a particular issue; we may abstain from voting, particularly if there are conflicting interests for you (for example, where your account(s) hold different securities in a competitive merger situation); or, we will take other necessary steps designed to ensure that a decision to vote is in your best interest and was not the product of the conflict.

We keep certain records required by applicable law in connection with our proxy voting activities. You may obtain information on how we voted proxies and/or obtain a full copy of our proxy voting policies and procedures by making a written or oral request to our firm.

Item 18 Financial Information

Our firm does not have any financial condition or impairment that would prevent us from meeting our contractual commitments to you. We do not take physical custody of client funds or securities or serve as trustee or signatory for client accounts. We do not require the prepayment of fees, nor have we filed a bankruptcy petition at any time in the past ten years. Therefore, we are not required to include a financial statement with this brochure. Princeton's firm financial statements and Fund financial statements are audited by a third-party accounting firm.

Item 19 Requirements for State-Registered Advisers

Certifications:

The Chartered Financial Analyst[®], CFA[®] and Certification Mark (collectively, the "CFA[®] marks") are professional certification marks granted in the United States and internationally by the CFA Institute.

The designation is a qualification for finance and investment professionals, particularly in the fields of investment management and financial analysis of securities and their derivatives.

Use of the CFA Mark signifies that an individual has earned the CFA charter. To earn a CFA charter, a Charterholder must have four years of qualified investment work experience, be a member of the CFA Institute, apply for membership to a local CFA membership society, pledge adherence to the CFA Institute Code of Ethics and Standards of Professional Conduct and complete the CFA program.

The CFA program is organized at three levels, with each level culminating in a comprehensive examination. A candidate for the CFA charter must pass the examinations at each of these levels, successively.

CFA Institute members and CFA program candidates must:

- Act with integrity, competence, diligence, respect and in an ethical manner with the public, colleagues in the investment profession and other participants in the capital markets.
- Place the integrity of the investment profession and interests of clients above their personal interests.

- Use reasonable care and exercise independent professional judgment when conducting investment analysis, making investment recommendations, taking investment actions and engaging in professional activities.
- Practice and encourage others to practice in a professional and ethical manner.
- Promote the integrity of the capital markets and uphold the rules governing the capital markets.
- Maintain and improve their professional competence.

Certifications: CFA

The Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA[®]) and Certification Mark (collectively, the "CFA marks") are professional certification marks granted in the United States and internationally by the CFA Institute.

The Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA) charter is a globally respected, graduate-level investment credential established in 1962 and awarded by CFA Institute - the largest global association of investment professionals.

There are currently more than 90,000 CFA charter holders working in 135 countries. To earn the CFA charter, candidates must: 1) pass three sequential, six-hour examinations; 2) have at least four years of qualified professional investment experience; 3) join CFA Institute as members; and 4) commit to abide by, and annually reaffirm, their adherence to the CFA Institute Code of Ethics and Standards of Professional Conduct.

High Ethical Standards - The CFA Institute Code of Ethics and Standards of Professional Conduct, enforced through an active professional conduct program, require CFA charter holders to:

- Place their clients' interests ahead of their own
- Maintain independence and objectivity
- Act with integrity
- Maintain and improve their professional competence
- Disclose conflicts of interest and legal matters

Global Recognition - Passing the three CFA exams is a difficult feat that requires extensive study (successful candidates report spending an average of 300 hours of study per level). Earning the CFA charter demonstrates mastery of many of the advanced skills needed for investment analysis and decision making in today's quickly evolving global financial industry. As a result, employers and clients are increasingly seeking CFA charter holders-often making the charter a prerequisite for employment. Additionally, regulatory bodies in 19 countries recognize the CFA charter as a proxy for meeting certain licensing requirements, and more than 125 colleges and universities around the world have incorporated a majority of the CFA Program curriculum into their own finance courses.

Comprehensive and Current Knowledge - The CFA Program curriculum provides a comprehensive framework of knowledge for investment decision making and is firmly grounded in the knowledge and skills used every day in the investment profession. The three levels of the CFA Program test a proficiency with a wide range of fundamental and advanced investment topics, including ethical and professional standards, fixed-income and equity analysis, alternative and derivative investments, economics, financial reporting standards, portfolio management, and wealth planning. The CFA Program curriculum is updated every year by experts from around the world to ensure that candidates learn the most relevant and practical new tools, ideas, and investment and wealth management skills to reflect the dynamic and complex nature of the profession. To learn more about the CFA charter, visit www.cfainstitute.org.

Comprehensive and Current Knowledge - The CFA Program curriculum provides a comprehensive framework of knowledge for investment decision making and is firmly grounded in the knowledge and skills used every day in the investment profession. The three levels of the CFA Program test a proficiency with a wide range of fundamental and advanced investment topics, including ethical and professional standards, fixed-income and equity analysis, alternative and derivative investments, economics, financial reporting standards, portfolio management, and wealth planning. The CFA Program curriculum is updated every year by experts from around the world to ensure that candidates learn the most relevant and practical new tools, ideas, and investment and wealth management skills to reflect the dynamic and complex nature of the profession.
